

THANKS

for coming to our 12th Annual Lakefront Marathon. 174 of you recorded personal records this year, and many of the rest of you received sunburns while hanging out after the race.

We'll be sending you an entry form for next year's race in late spring of 1993. Hope to see you for number, er, 13!

Race Director

Thanks to the 28 individuals and teams who entered the Survival Guide Song Contest this year. (You didn't know there was a contest? Perhaps you should read your Survival Guide more carefully!)

Congratulations to contest winners Scott Rambo (Normal, IL) and Kelly's Crew (Kelly Moehr, Charlie Peters, Dale McFarland, John Grunder and Bill Klutho from Davenport, IA).

There were over 220 song titles sprinkled through the 1992 Lakefront Marathon Survival Guide; Scot found 136 and Kelly's Crew located 101. Scot receives a free individual entry and Kelly's Crew picks up a free team entry for next year's marathon. Honorable mentions go to John Jenk (101 songs), Leigh Wysocky (96) and Tony Daujotas (91), and to Elizabeth Krznarick, who very kindly alphabetized her list.

Following is the list of songs and one of the artists who recorded it, ordered by the number of times the song was found. Credit was given once to a song title, regardless of how many artists (e.g. "Nutbush City Limits" by Seger and Turner), or if there were multiple (different) songs with the same name (e.g. "One" by Three Dog Night and U2).

Credit was given for "Walking on the Wild Side" by Lou Reed even though the actual song title is "Walk on the Wild Side" (tried to trick you - and it worked!) because every entrant picked the song. However, credit was denied for "Vehicle" (Idea of March) because the word in the Survival Guide was "vehicles." Sorry. It's my game and I can change the rules whenever I want. Furthermore, several people selected "Roller Skates" by Melanie. ("I've got a pair of roller skates...") If you'd spent less time studying and more time listening to the radio when you were in high school, you'd have known that the name of the song is Brand New Key.

I'm impressed that somebody found "Go Cry On Somebody Else's Shoulder" and that so many found "Clock Strikes Ten." On the other hand, I'm appalled that more people didn't find "About to Begin", "Bad", "It's No Secret", "Marathon" or "Precious." No accounting for taste, I guess.

Any ideas for next year's contest? How about girl groups?
